Airtel

Job Title:	Mobile QA Engineer (Android)
Job Description:	We're looking for you to join our Android Team, which is a small but high-level team responsible for the development Wrike android application. We are developing mobile-specific features and support them from the web application on mobile and experiment with mobile-first experience which often makes a great impact on the whole product.
Specific responsibilities:	- Manual testing of the android app - Development of test documentation - Communication with developers - Registration of bug reports, control over-correction - Analysis of tasks and requirements - Development of new UI tests - Analysis of results test executions
Qualifications:	- Solid experience in testing mobile applications - Understand the specific of testing mobile applications Know the differences between testing mobile apps (android & iOS); - Know the android (understand the patterns of the operating system, know the basic tools for testing, understand the features of the android). - Upper-Intermediate English skills
Education	- University degree, ideally in a mobile app development-related field of study. - Experience with different types of testing including functional, UI, localisation, API and integration testing - Have experience working in a Scrum team - Motivated to participate in all stages of product development; - Test Automation – Espresso + Kotlin - Knowledge of Material Design - Experience with performance testing